1. Introduction

SES Guidelines for Academic Staff are established in accordance with the GFC Academic Staff Criteria & Processes Handbook (GFC Handbook) and the Collective Agreement between The Governors of The University of Calgary and The Faculty Association of The University of Calgary (Collective Agreement).

These guidelines have been developed by the GFC Handbook within the specific context of the roles of academic staff within Student and Enrolment Services. These guidelines will be reviewed minimally every three years in addition to when updates to the GFC Handbook occur.

These guidelines embrace the "Our Values" section of the Tomorrow Strategy and the ii' taa'poh'to'p's Statement of Commitments. We recognize faculty members contributions to these commitments in accordance with Articles 28.3 and 29.2.3 of the Collective Agreement, the quality of administrative leadership will be recognized when evaluating academic staff for Tenure and Promotion, and for Assessment. Administrative duties can take the form of formal appointments or may occur informally.

2. Criteria for Teaching, Research and Scholarship and Service

2.1. Teaching

In addition to Part B, Section 1.3 of the GFC Handbook, SES academic staff may engage research and scholarship is broadly defined and includes the creation, organization, and dissemination of knowledge to academic, public, and professional communities.

Examples of Research and Scholarship include, but are not limited to (in no priority order):

- Publication(s) or pre-press submission(s) in journals that are peer reviewed or have a substantive, rigorous editorial process, and chapters in books.
- Authorship and/or editorship of publications such as books, commissioned reports, websites, etc.
- Non-peer-reviewed authorship of book reviews, and shorter articles, blogs.
- Editorship of journals.
- Delivery of keynote address(es), major address(es), and formal participation in scholarly discussions at conferences/workshops through presentations, panels, participation in posters.
- Invited review of manuscripts, abstracts, tenure and promotion documents, and grant applications.
- Submission of proposals for both internal and external research grants.
- Receipt of research grants from internal, or external funding bodies
- Maintaining currency within one's profession (e.g., attending conferences, training certificates, reading logs)

Peer review is a measure of the value peers place on an academic member's scholarship. If formal evaluation of peers is not available, the individual should make efforts to provide information to support the value that peers place on their work.

Research and scholarship includes activities undertaken as a result of new insights. Outcomes may include: the number of people in various target audiences that use the research findings (including data sets), the number of students trained, new insights created in the discipline, field, policies developed, business strategies formulated, advancements in understanding reconciliation, etc. Outcomes may be either foreseen or unforeseen, direct or indirect, intended or unintended" (SSHRC, 2019).

Additional examples of research outcomes are long-term outcomes or effects that take the form of changed thinking and behaviours. Impacts are reflected through such indicators as global economic performance, competitiveness, public service effectiveness, new products and services, employment, policy relevance, learning skills enhancement, quality of life, community cohesion, and movement toward reconciliation and social inclusion" (SSHRC, 2019).

Further examples of Teaching, Research, and Service activities, along with appropriate evidence is available in Table 1 and Table 3.

3. Requirements for Academic Staff by Rank

Section 28.2 of the GFC Academic Staff Criteria & Process Handbook Part B criteria with respect to Counsellors shall be established by the Student and Employee Services Council.

The following paragraphs set out the requirements for academic Counsellors across ranks and streams for instructor and professorial. These requirements describe the level at which academic staff members in each rank and stream are expected to contribute to research and scholarship (herein labelled "counselling") and service. Table 2 provides a comparison of expectations in the areas of counselling, research and scholarship, and service across rank and stream. Table 2 also provides an outline of the expectations for hiring, renewal, transfer, promotion and tenure.

3.5. Requirements for Senior Counsellor (Professorial)

4.2. Applying for Promotion or Transfer of Stream

Applicants applying for promotion must demonstrate evidence of significant activity and leadership in the areas of counselling, scholarly activities, and service that reflects the weighting of these activities in their assigned duties. Table 1 provides examples of types of evidence for each activity. Applicants are evaluated using the criteria for the rank to which the applicant is seeking promotion (see Table 2).

Applications for transfer of stream from Instructor to Professional Instructor may be granted in accordance with Section 3.5 of the GFC Academic Staff Criteria & Process Handbook Part B. Applicants applying for transfer of stream must demonstrate evidence of excellent quality activities in each of the three areas of counselling and scholarship, and service as determined by the usual expectations for the rank and stream to which they are transferring. Table 1 and Table 2 provide activities and criteria considered in evaluation of applications.

5. Academic Performance Assessment

This process occurs every 2 years, in accordance with the timelines outlined in Article 29 of the Collective Agreement. There are two aspects to the academic performance assessment process: Progression Through the Ranks (PTR) and Outstanding Achievement Awards (OAA) Article

The Associate Director of Counselling, is responsible for the selection and appointment of the AASC with academic unit members. Due to the small size of the unit, appointments of AASC ultimately fall to the Associate Director of Counselling's designate who will ensure fairness and representativeness and diversity of committee members. The AASC is typically composed of five members:

- Deanequivalent, or designate, serves as chair.
- AASC is typically composed of more than three academic staff members from the Unit, who hold Continuing, Limited Term, and/or Contingent appointments. A minimum of two members of an academic unit, must hold Continuing Appointment (tenure or tenure track).
- Two members who are academic staff members from outside the Faculty and any applicable Conjoint Unit and hold Continuing academic appointments (tenure or tenure track). These two members are appointed by the Deanequivalent, or designate. This Committee member provides a perspective beyond the interests of the discipline or Faculty and has a particular role in observing fairness of the proceedings and appropriate application of criteria.
- One member who is a graduate student or trainee from the relevant discipline
- Quorum shall be the majority of voting members on the Committee from the hiring discipline
- All members vote. The Chair votes to break a tie.
- Additional members may be added, but committee composition could vary with Article 3.1 of the Academic Staff Criteria & Processes Handbook Part C.

8. Faculty Tenure and Promotion Committee

The composition and responsibilities of the Faculty Tenure and Promotion Committee shall follow the requirements (see Article 28) set forth in the Collective Agreement, where possible for this document to modify the committee composition as outlined in the Collective Agreement.

9. Description of tables provided

Once a Counselor joins the Student and Enrollment Services faculty their yearly work assignment will break down into three categories for Counselling and Scholarship and Service. For all the examples provided in each of the tables below, no faculty member is expected to achieve every example given within an academic year for their rank and stream.

Table 1

Table 2 shows examples of expectations across streams and counsellor role and may be used by counsellors and leaders when considering assessing the expectations for hiring, renewal, transfer, promotion, and tenure.

Table 3 outlines criteria to be applied in the OAA and PTR processes.
